

New markets represent new opportunities, but with opportunities come risks

TrainingSolutions offers specialized services in global travel security and crisis management. We provide customized personal security courses, consultations, and coaching for individuals and companies who work in the global market. We understand security from intercultural, inter-religious, and international perspectives.

With our services tailored to your company's needs, experience the difference that managing travel risks can make for your staff and their families. And, for protecting your company's assets, brand and reputation. TrainingSolutions is your ticket to safer travels.

Personal Security Courses

Your regional sales director's laptop is stolen in China. How valuable are its' contents to your your company? To your competitors? A Dell study found 65% of business travelers do nothing to protect the sensitive data on their computers. Our personal security courses not only benefit your staff, they also protect your company's other valuable assets.

Security Coaching

Your project leader for the new India deal is distracted: His spouse is deeply concerned about moving their kids. You know that a failed relocation can your company up to 670,000 euros: What can your company do to reassure her and insure that your staff is focused? Our security coaching prepares individuals, teams, and family members to travel or work abroad. We also coach managers who are responsible for staff abroad.

Global Consultations & Crisis Management

Is it worth considering the competitive advantages that proactive global security consulting and crisis management brings? Our security consultations are effective because our solutions are tailored for your company, using both process and result oriented methods.

Security Management Workshops

For staff whose job it is to manage security, proactively.

Training of Security Trainers

For staff who want to improve their training skills, in general. And our security-focused courses can help companies create a pool of in-house security trainers.

